HARDING IN SPEECH ON THE WORLD COURT

REACTION TO HIS ST. LOUIS SPEECH MAY BE VIOLENT

EXPECTS IRRECONCILABLES WILL AT ONCE RAISE A TERRIBLE CLAMOR

MAY BE AGAINST SUGGESTION THAT WORLD COURT BE MADE SELF-PERPETUATING

(Copyright 1923 by United Press)

En Route to Kansas City, Aboard President Harding's Special Train, June 22.—President Harding has either taken into camp the enemies of his world court plan, or has surrendered the proposals to their mercies, knowing that they will kill it.

The president believes he has done the former; that, by appearing to yield freely and generously to their demand for reservations he has forced Lodge, Watson and other disaffected republican senators to put on their reservations and then ratify the protocol, or convict themselves before the country of insincerity.

The reaction to President Harding's world court speech to an audience of 10,000 in St. Louis last night probably will be violent. The president will not be surprised if it is. He expects, for example, that the irreconcilables will at once raise a clamor against his suggestion that the court be made self-perpetuating.

That suggestion, one of the most amazing ever offered by an American president, was put into the speech against the advice of some of Mr. Harding's closest friends, but he did put it in ,and offered to consider any and all reservations offered in good faith.

This was deliberately put in to line up in the matter those who are for it, who against it, and who are trying to knife it while ostensibly supporting it in principle.

The St. Louis speech was, in fact, the boldest challenge Mr. Harding has yet made to those leaders who are trying to run him, not only in the court issue but in other matters, some of them purely political.

The president was warned before he delivered his speech that it would not bring out friends or foes of the world court plan. Some advocates are expressing the opinion that Mr. Harding has weakened most disappointingly.

THE ST. LOUIS SPEECH AS GIVEN BY PRESIDENT

St. Louis, June 22—President Harding placed before the country a renewed plea for American adherence to the permanent court of international justice "as the one and only existing agency of peace to which we can safely subscribe without violating the basic principles of our national being." The president said in part:

First Prepared Speech

Making the first prepared address of his western trip, the president said that to bring about the end he desired he "would gladly wipe out factional differences," and proposed a reconstruction of the machinery of the international tribunal "to dispose conclusively of all other cited apprehensions of danger from the exercise of any influence whatsoever, either open or furtive, by the League of Nations or by any other organization."

Done in Two Ways

"This could be done in one of two ways," he asserted. "First by empowering the court itself to fill any vacancy arising from a death of a member or retirement for whatever cause, without interposition from any other body; or, second, by continuing the existing authority of the permanent court of arbitration to nominate and by transferring the power to elect from the council and assembly of the league to the remaining members of the court of justice."

CLAIMS GERMANS SHOT, KILLED TWO BELGIANS, AND WOUNDED A THIRD

(By United Press)

Dusseldorf, June 22.—Two Belgian soldiers were shot dead and a third wounded when two German civilians whom they had ordered to halt on the road near the village of Morl, between Dorsten and Recklinghausen in the Ruhr, fired on them.

The Belgians were members of a cyclist patrol. Coming upon the Germans, they stopped and questioned, whereupon one of the latter drew a revolver and fired rapidly, shooting down the three soldiers before they could act. Neither of the Germans has been apprehended.

TWO BIG LINERS TEST DRY ACT

BRING HUNDREDS OF GALLONS OF LIQUOR WITHIN 3 MILE LIMIT

(By United Press)

New York, June 22—Two of the biggest British liners afloat—the Baltic and Berengaria—brought hundreds of gallons of beverage liquor within the three-mile limit and into the United States today in the first test of the strength of the Volstead act pertaining to American territorial waters.

The liquor, including wines, spirits, and beer, was in closed storerooms and sealed with the seals of his Majesty' government

Customs officials at once put into motion machinery they had prepared for the liquor's reception. Dr. F. K. Sprague of the Public Health Service went to the vessels to examine the supplies of beverages and designate how much of the liquor was in excess of that needed for medicinal purposes. This was to be seized by customs men and prohibition authorities.

The big Berengaria made sure that there was no chance of her liquor being overlooked. Ships officers said that they had above what was needed for medicinal purposes as follows: 101 5-6 gallons of wine; 110 1-6 gallons of spirits, and 3,888 bottles of ale and stout.

After the public health officials and customs men had looked the ship over at quarantine, the captain waited twenty minutes expecting something to happen regarding the liquor, but the American authorities, after one look at the sealed and nailed door of the storeroom, did nothing.

It was learned that the British government in no way challenges the authority of the United States to break the seals and confiscate the liquor. It was pointed out that jurisdiction of the British government ceases concerning seals as soon as the ship leaves British territorial waters.

8 BRITISH LINERS TO MAKE TEST CASES

London, June 22—Eight big British liners in addition to the Olympic are understood to be preparing to carry liquor into the United States to make test cases like those brought by the Baltic and Berengaria.

United States customs officials are in for a busy time if they seize all the stocks of beverages which are brought in by successive relays of ocean liners.

Other big vessels which will carry liquor over are the Albania, Franconia, Caronia, Cedric and Lapland, it is understood.

MT. ETNA'S LAVA FLOOD COOLING

Catania, June 22—Etna's lava flows are cooling and have slowed down to a snail's pace. Less than six yards an hour is covered by the molten rivers. Another hamlet, Monte Santo, is in danger of being engulfed, however. People are returning to other towns and the inhabitants are comparatively calm.

NATCHOFF, CONVICT, SLAYER AND BAD MAN, STILL FREE

FIRST REPORT THAT HE HAD BEEN TAKEN IN SWAMP IS UNTRUE ONE

FUGITIVE MAY BE FORCED TO SURRENDER AS FOOD IS RUNNING LOW

(By United Press)

Escanaba, Mich., June 22.—George Natchoff, escaped Marquette prison convict and slayer of Deputy Sheriff Frank Curran, was still at large today in his wooded swamp stronghold near here, as a posse of several hundred men, headed by J. P. Corgan, warden of Marquete prison, continued to guard all exits and approaches.

After leaving only road patrols on duty last night, all the members of the posse getting all the sleep they could, Warden Corgan this morning was preparing for a concentrated attack. With several former service men as members of the posse, tactics used during the world war in "cleaning out machine nests" are expected to be brought into play today.

While attention is being attracted to one side, others will cautiously attack from several other angles. It is believed that this will enable the posse to confuse Natchoff to such an extent that he may break forth from his hiding place and he brought down. It was shown that the fugitive has not had food for several days, and may be forced to surrender because of hunger. Other hopes are that he may have taken his own life or that he may have dropped from exhaustion.

Reports That He Killed Himself

Escanaba, Mich., June 22—A pistol shot breaking the stillness of the night is believed to have ended the life of George Natchoff, Marquette prison fugitive convict, for whom a posse has been searching since early Wednesday morning in a swamp near here, last night.

As members of the posse were making preparations to make a thorough search of the swamp today, a report of having heard a pistol shot was given road patrols. It is believed that Natchoff, nearing exhaustion from lack of food and because of the intense heat and attack of insects, took his own life with the revolver with which he shot and killed Deputy Sheriff Frank Curran, member of the posse which was pursuing him since Wednesday afternoon.

Another report was current this morning that Natchoff, apparently in exhausted condition, was seen near the edge of the swamp late yesterday He still clutched the pistol in his hand as he had when seen by pursuers. The glimpse of the fugitive was only momentary, reports said, and he was too far away for any effective pistol work.

These combinations of reports indicate suicide, according to those in charge of the hunt.

Re-enforcements from all parts of the country, including many former service men, arrived early today ready to take part in the drive which started shortly before. Full military practice prevails. The men are kept in order by sharp commands of those in charge. Searchers are placed from 8 to 10 feet apart, but even at that distance, because of the dense undergrowth, members are unable to see one another. The ranks of state police, prison guards, sheriffs, and city police officials, and many volunteers are made up of many service men. Some of those on the trail of the slayer of Curran are skilled wodsmen, crackshots and hunters with long experience in the northern woods, to their credit.

Another Man Thought Masquerading as Woman

(By United Press)

Chicago, June 22—Another man masquerading as a woman was sought by police today in connection with the Richard C. Tesmer murder.

The second suspect is known as "Slim" and was a companion of Fred G. Thompson, who was identified by Mrs. Tesmer as her husband's slayer.

Like Thompson, "Slim" has been hard to find, but indications are that he was the male companion of the Tesmer "girl bandit," Chief of Detectives Mike Hughes said.

Fred Thompson, who is in prison, raved in his cell today when denied drugs to which police say he is addicted. His incoherent cries were of no avail.

FIRST SWEET PEAS OF SEASON GIVEN TO THE DISPATCH

The first sweet peas of the season, grown by Mrs. Fred Brending, were presented to The Dispatch today and the present was gratefully accepted.

The flowers are of luxuriant growth. In fact, when it comes to sweet peas, you can't find a finer example of this flower anywhere than was produced in this Brainerd Lake Region country.

SLASHES THROAT IN HIS APARTMENT

(By United Press)

London, June 22—An Austrian woman, whose name was withheld by police, slashed her throat today with a razor in the apartment of H. G. Wells, famous British author. She was taken to a hospital, where her condition is serious.

The woman had been translating several of Wells' books, and visited the flat today, insisting on seeing him. Wels saw her when she came into the sitting room, he told police, and, observing that she was acting strangely, he called a porter to summon police.

When he returned to the flat, he said, he found the woman, face down on the floor, and blood streaming from a gash in her throat.

PLAN COOPERATIVE PURCHASE ARMOUR GRAIN COMPANY

PROPOSAL BY BERNARD M. BARUCH THAT FARMERS BUY THE CORPORATION

"DIRECT-FROM-THE GROWER" SALES PROJECT IS BROACHED BY HIM

(By United Press)

Chicago, June 22.—A plan for a cooperative purchase of the Armour Grain company by farmers, as suggested by Bernard M. Baruch, has aroused favorable interest from J. Ogden Armour and George E. Marcy, heads of the grain company.

Marcy confirmed that Baruch had broached the scheme to both the Armour chiefs. After Armour and Marcy had given general approval to the plan, no definite proposal as to purchase price or buyers was made, and the project is still in a "tentative stage."

"We are open to any proposition made us, and we understand that the conversations will be resumed after Baruch has conferred with other parties (probably grain or wheat growers) who may become friendly to such an arrangement."

Baruch revealed his proposed project in an interview with the United Press in New York last night. The project will probably be turned over to the farmers through the United States Grain Growers, Inc., or a like organization, to purchase the Armour organization and turn it into a great co-operative marketing concern, through which the wheat growers may obtain increased prices and greater profits.

Marcy revealed that Armour was averse to the plan at first. It was pointed out by Baruch, however, that such a project would be a monument to the founder of the Armour interests, the present board chairman's father, and Armour's "general approval" was won, Baruch said

"The Baruch plan" provides that the farmers' cooperative corporation, into which the Armour concern would be turned, would handle 35 per cent or more of the nation's wheat production.

Under this "direct-from-the grower" sales project, it is believed that sufficient marketing expenses can be eliminated to increase the farmer's profit from 35 to 40 per cent without increasing prices to the consumer.

The plan was considered significant here, many leaders in the National Wheat Conference just ended having suggested such a cooperative corporation.

Farmers coming into the deal would subscribe sufficient money to make the first payment on the purchase price, the same to be paid back out of profits.

M. Mohl, secretary of the United Grain Growers, and O. E. Bradfute, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, flatly denied that the Grain Growers would be taken over by any other organization

"ASK ME, I LIVE HERE" BUTTONS ARE WORN FOR TOURISTS

The Brainerd Civic & Commerce association is distributing the buttons, "Ask Me, I Live Here." These are used to assist tourists who may wish to gain information about Brainerd and the Brainerd Lake Region.

That the buttons are fulfilling their mission was evidenced when a Dispatch man wore his three minutes and was hailed in this wise by a big touring party from Chicago, carrying three men and three ladies:

The driver swung in and said in a loud whisper: "Say, I've been spitting a bale of cotton from Chicago out. Can you tell me where I can get a drink?"

PRESIDENT ORDERS IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SCORE OF FEDERAL WAR PRISONERS ARE GIVEN THEIR FREEDOM BY HARDING

Washington, June 22—Immediate release of more than a score of federal prisoners convicted of violating war laws but with continued detention of almost as many more was ordered Wednesday by President Harding before leaving on his western trip.

The president acted on 158 pardon and communication cases, a record-breaking number in the opinion of department of justice officials. He granted 30 conditional and 14 unconditional commutations, one full pardon, restored full rights to 27 former prisoners and denied 84 applications for pardons or commutations. He also ordered remission of fines in two cases.

Bentall Out July 24

The sentence of J. O. Bentall, Minnesota socialist editor, was ordered by the president to expire July 24 next. He was convicted of violating the espionage law. Sentenced April 12, 1920, to two years in Leavenworth penitentiary, he began serving his sentence Jan. 24, 1922, after loss of appeals. Bentall was the socialist nominee for governor of Minnesota in 1916 polling 26,306 in the campaign in which Governor Burnquist won a full term in his own right.

Draft Evaders Freed

Interest centered in the cases of those convicted of violating the espionage act, draft and other war laws, whose applications had been pressed by various organizations and persons of prominence. These numbered 48 and the president granted commutations to 27, but denied applications in 21 cases, including a group of 20 alleged members of the I. W. W. convicted at Sacramento, Cal. Two convicted there, however, had their sentences commuted conditionally on their deportation.

Chicago Men Out

Sentences of 22 alleged I. W. W. members convicted in the celebrated Chicago trials and sent to the Leavenworth penitentiary were commuted to expire at once. Three of four alleged I. W. W. members convicted at Wichita, Kan., received commutations.

Announcement of the President's action was made by the department of justice after the executive's departure, the entire day having been required to prepare statements of the cases, many of which have been before the president for months.

Other Cases Heard

In addition to these cases growing out of war law violations, the president's orders include clemency for many other prisoners convicted of offenses ranging from bigamy to bootlegging and including violations of the mail fraud, Mann white slave, bribery and other statutes.

Details regarding the 84 pardon and commutation applications denied were withheld, but it was learned officially that among them were those of Israel and Harry Goldberg of Savannah, Ga., and New York, sentenced to the Atlanta penitentiary and fined for violating the war-time prohibition laws. Israel Goldberg carried his case to the supreme court in an effort to avoid serving time.

Clemency grants by the president include a few cases growing out of the railroad strike last year and resulting from violations of injunctions obtained in federal courts. The full pardon went to Asa W. Campbell, convicted at St. Louis of contempt of court for violation of a temporary injunction secured by the Wabash railroad against the International Association of Mechanics.

IS A DEPARTURE FROM USUAL PLAN OF A CHAUTAUQUA

MORE ATTENTION IS BEING GIVEN TO COMFORT OF CHAUTAUQUA PATRONS

SEASON TICKETS WILL BE OFFERED FOR SALE WEEK BEGINNING JUNE 25

The New Park Theatre has been secured for the Brainerd Chautauqua held July 1-5, inclusive. This is a departure from the ordinary chautauqua, inasmuch as a tent was nearly always used to present the various programs.

Procedure has changed, however, and, in communities like Brainerd, theatres and large halls are used to accomodate the present type of Chautauquas.

More attention is being given to the comfort of Chautauqua patrons and the New Park is admirably equipped to furnish a cool interior, together with electric fans and comfortable seats. Proper lighting effects, both in the body of the house and on the stage, add to the enjoyment of the programs. It was such items as these that influenced the local Chautauqua management to choose the theatre in which to present the attractive program which has been chosen.

Season tickets will be offered for sale the week beginning June 25th. The price is $2.00 and a ticket is transferable among members of the same family.

"ASK ME, I LIVE HERE" BUTTONS ARE WORN FOR TOURISTS

The Brainerd Civic & Commerce association is distributing the buttons, "Ask Me, I Live Here." These are used to assist tourists who may wish to gain information about Brainerd and the Brainerd Lake Region.

That the buttons are fulfilling their mission was evidenced when a Dispatch man wore his three minutes and was hailed in this wise by a big touring party from Chicago, carrying three men and three ladies:

The driver swung in and said in a loud whisper: "Say, I've been spitting a bale of cotton from Chicago out. Can you tell me where I can get a drink?"

PRESIDENT ORDERS IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SCORE OF FEDERAL WAR PRISONERS ARE GIVEN THEIR FREEDOM BY HARDING

Washington, June 22—Immediate release of more than a score of federal prisoners convicted of violating war laws but with continued detention of almost as many more was ordered Wednesday by President Harding before leaving on his western trip.

The president acted on 158 pardon and communication cases, a record-breaking number in the opinion of department of justice officials. He granted 30 conditional and 14 unconditional commutations, one full pardon, restored full rights to 27 former prisoners and denied 84 applications for pardons or commutations. He also ordered remission of fines in two cases.

Bentall Out July 24

The sentence of J. O. Bentall, Minnesota socialist editor, was ordered by the president to expire July 24 next. He was convicted of violating the espionage law. Sentenced April 12, 1920, to two years in Leavenworth penitentiary, he began serving his sentence Jan. 24, 1922, after loss of appeals. Bentall was the socialist nominee for governor of Minnesota in 1916 polling 26,306 in the campaign in which Governor Burnquist won a full term in his own right.

Draft Evaders Freed

Interest centered in the cases of those convicted of violating the espionage act, draft and other war laws, whose applications had been pressed by various organizations and persons of prominence. These numbered 48 and the president granted commutations to 27, but denied applications in 21 cases, including a group of 20 alleged members of the I. W. W. convicted at Sacramento, Cal. Two convicted there, however, had their sentences commuted conditionally on their deportation.

Chicago Men Out

Sentences of 22 alleged I. W. W. members convicted in the celebrated Chicago trials and sent to the Leavenworth penitentiary were commuted to expire at once. Three of four alleged I. W. W. members convicted at Wichita, Kan., received commutations.

Announcement of the President's action was made by the department of justice after the executive's departure, the entire day having been required to prepare statements of the cases, many of which have been before the president for months.

Other Cases Heard

In addition to these cases growing out of war law violations, the president's orders include clemency for many other prisoners convicted of offenses ranging from bigamy to bootlegging and including violations of the mail fraud, Mann white slave, bribery and other statutes.

Details regarding the 84 pardon and commutation applications denied were withheld, but it was learned officially that among them were those of Israel and Harry Goldberg of Savannah, Ga., and New York, sentenced to the Atlanta penitentiary and fined for violating the war-time prohibition laws. Israel Goldberg carried his case to the supreme court in an effort to avoid serving time.

Clemency grants by the president include a few cases growing out of the railroad strike last year and resulting from violations of injunctions obtained in federal courts. The full pardon went to Asa W. Campbell, convicted at St. Louis of contempt of court for violation of a temporary injunction secured by the Wabash railroad against the International Association of Mechanics.

IS A DEPARTURE FROM USUAL PLAN OF A CHAUTAUQUA

MORE ATTENTION IS BEING GIVEN TO COMFORT OF CHAUTAUQUA PATRONS

SEASON TICKETS WILL BE OFFERED FOR SALE WEEK BEGINNING JUNE 25

The New Park Theatre has been secured for the Brainerd Chautauqua held July 1-5, inclusive. This is a departure from the ordinary chautauqua, inasmuch as a tent was nearly always used to present the various programs.

Procedure has changed, however, and, in communities like Brainerd, theatres and large halls are used to accomodate the present type of Chautauquas.

More attention is being given to the comfort of Chautauqua patrons and the New Park is admirably equipped to furnish a cool interior, together with electric fans and comfortable seats. Proper lighting effects, both in the body of the house and on the stage, add to the enjoyment of the programs. It was such items as these that influenced the local Chautauqua management to choose the theatre in which to present the attractive program which has been chosen.

Season tickets will be offered for sale the week beginning June 25th. The price is $2.00 and a ticket is transferable among members of the same family.

REALLY NOT IN ANY HURRY

Not Hard to Believe Naive Statement Made by Men Condemned to Be Hanged.

Augustus Thomas has a story to relate of his early days which illustrates the very telling effect to be achieved by just a few words, the New York Herald says. Thomas was then an advance agent, working the territory ahead of a famous mind reader of a generation ago, and generally working it for all it was worth. In Minnesota he managed to land his thought diviner on the front pages of the newspapers by asking for a reprieve for two brothers, due to be executed for murder, until his psychic wizard could arrive on the spot, read the minds of the condemned men and determine whether the jury were good guessers in finding them guilty.

The following day, in order to get a good second-day story, Thomas decided to work up further interest in a delay of execution—and incidentally in his mind reader—by visiting the jail and having the two prisoners sign an important statement to go to the governor.

"They were men of limited intelligence," says Thomas, "rather illiterate, and so I thought it best to confine their statement to one simple sentence. I merely had them say: 'We're willing to wait.'"

HARDING IN SPEECH ON THE WORLD COURT

"making the world court precisely what its name implies."

"Can it be possible that, despite their protestations to th econtrary, this is not what some of our sister states at heart desire?" he asked.

Test Welcomed

"Must there be a test of sincerity abroad as well as at home?" Then the more quickly it can be made the better, the better for them and the better for us. There is nothing to be accomplished in ambiguity. We want to know. And the only way to find out is to inquire."

Pride in Achievements

The president devoted virtually all of his address to the world court issue, but he also reviewed briefly what had been done by his administration to get the country "back on the right track" in its domestic affairs. Although declaring he did not come to make a "partisan report," he said he took pride in pointing out that unemployment had been "banished," financially stability restored, taxes lightened, and great economies effected in government.

Turns to Foreign Affairs

Washington's farewell address was taken by the chief executive as his point of departure whe nhe turned to foreign relations. American adhesion to the court, he said, squares with the principles enunciated by Washington, who recognized the value of international arbitration.

"It is with that high purpose in mind that I advocate participation by the United States in the permanent court of international justice," continued Mr. Harding.

Two Prime Conditions

"Two conditions may be considered indispensable:

"First, that the tribunal be so constituted as to appear and to be, in theory and practice, in form and in substance, beyond the shadow of doubt, a world court and not a league court.

"Second, that the United States shall occupy a plane of perfect equality with every other power."

Elaborating upon his pronouncement that the court must not be a league court, the executive asserted that the country had an opportunity to indicate its desire to joint the league in 1920 and it "most emphatically refused" and "it would refuse again, no less decisively today."

League Unchanged

"There has been no change of condition," he added with respect to the league issue.

"It is the same league. Not a line in the rejected covenant has been altered, not a phrase modified, not a word omitted or added. Article X still stands as the heart of the compact. Article XI, and all other stipulations objected to and condemned by the American people, remain untouched, in full force in theory, however, circumspectly they are being ignored in practice.

HARDING CHEERED AT KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., June 22—President Harding was given a rousing welcome at the "Gateway of the Southwest" here today. Thousands cheered the chief executive on his tour of the city, following his arrival from St. Louis.

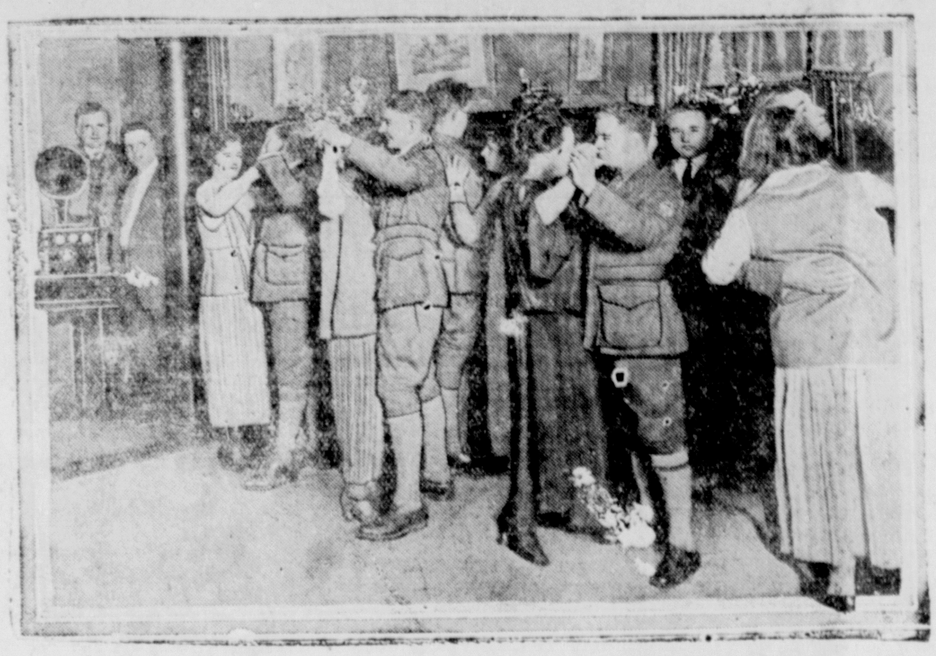

Crowds greeted the presidential party everywhere. The president and Mrs. Harding appeared to be standing the heat without unusual discomfort.

J., inaugurated an innovation in entertaining the daughters of his neighbors and their Boy Scout escorts The impossibilities of yesteryear have become the realities of today; young "Bobs" guests attired in Boy Scouts uniforms, with their partners, tripped the light fantastic to music played by orchestras miles away. The stimulating strains broadcasted by WEAF and WCR respectively, were picked up by that proudest possession of Bobs a radio receiver, and simplified by a Western Electric Loud Speaker so that every one in the Hatfield home easily heard every note.

Reason for Embarrassment.

I had always been accused of doing eccentric things, but I didn't realize the truth of it until one Sunday. I roomed just across the street from the church I attended. I went to church without an umbrella. When the services were over it was pouring outside. Having on a perfectly respectable underskirt, I turned my suit skirt over my head. Half way across the street a little boy rushed up to me and shouted: "Teacher, you've got both your skirts over your head!"—Exchange.

PLAYING FAIR WITH THE IMMIGRANT

ALVIN OWSLEY, national commander of the American Legion, speaking before representatives of the American Legion of the seventh Minnesota district, said: "We are trying to right and enforce an immigration law which would protect America against those who would come to America and destroy that for which Knute Nelson lived and that for which he died."

Like many public utterances this is a statement that was not carefully calculated before it was expressed. Those who know the facts know that the late lamented Senator Knute Nelson lived to a ripe old age, that he gave himself freely for his country and that he died in fullness of years and not in any unusual sense for his country. For his country he lived and after a long life of service he died a natural death.

The other part of the statement of the national commander of the American Legion would suggest that there are many people in other parts of the earth who are awaiting the opportunity of coming to America for the deliberate purpose of overthrowing our form of government. It may be true that some communist organization is ready to send immigrants to this country to spread propaganda, but, generally, immigrants who enter America come here because they have been told stories about this country which lead them to believe that opportunity awaits them in this land dedicated to the good of its citizens.

It may be said, without fear of contradiction by the facts, that native-born Americans have made a great many communists of foreigners who have entered this land. These have been made in two ways. Coming here with high hopes of success and prosperity, they have been exploited by selfish interests directed by American-born managers, or they have been instructed by intelligent Americans who are ready to use foreigners to help them in changing our form of government.

It must not be forgotten, when an attitude is taken towards the immigrant, that the flood of immigrants came over before the World war. In the years preceding the war communism was not popular in Europe, Karl Marx was little known, and whatever socialism there was was of a mild form. Communism and Bolshevism found opportunity in the war when oppressed Russian peasants rebelled and from Russia spread to other eastern European countries. The immigrants in America became communists in America and not on foreign soil and Lenine and Trotsky went from America to organize communism in Russia.

In opposing any increase in the number of immigrants to be admitted to the United States at this time, we would not be unfair to those who wish to come. We are convinced that foreigners arriving in this country would become good Americans if they were treated according to the standard of treatment of native-born Americans. If America is unable to change the mind of a foreigner who, when admitted, harbors certain communistic views the immigrant should be returned. But it must be remembered that conditions make more disciples of communism than theorists, than even Karl Marx. The immigrant who comes to America may become an Edward Steiner, a Jacob Riis, a Knute Nelson or a Bolshevist. Of course, if they come with certain communistic ideas, there is all the more reason why they should be treated humanely here, and not as "dumb, driven cattle." Mr. Owsley must think back from the material of which Americans are made, to the conditions that make Americans in America, or Bolshevists in America.

A BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

WHEN President Harding took over the reins of office he was pledged to a program of economy. During the campaign he had stressed the necessity of bringing America back to normalcy and had affirmed that a business administration pledged to economy was needed to accomplish what he conceived to be the first task of his administration.

The Harding administration was faced by an appalling condition of things in government departments in Washington. The exigencies of wartime had led to prodigal extravagance. Money had been poured into the treasury by a people who when aroused were ready to make any sacrifice that might be called for to bring the war to a successful issue. That this money was not always spent to the best advantage has been abundantly proved. This, however, should not be too much stressed for any administration, faced with the problems of the Wilson administration, would be unable to handle affairs with the assurance that investigation would not result in the indictment of the administration for its extravagance. There were eagles that never soared, engines that never propelled planes, boats that never floated, and many other things paid for that were never delivered. Into this kind of a situation the Harding administration was plunged and it has been able to keep afloat since the plunge.

By living within its income and accumulating a surplus of $200,000,000 during the past twelve months, the government of the United States has lived up to the promise of the president. Economy has been practiced, departmental appropriations have been cut, and the departments spurred on to the task of reducing expenditures by the president have made such reductions that a balance of $200,000,000 is in the treasury. This has been accomplished despite the fact that the fiscal year which opened last July 1st started with a deficit of $823,000,000.

President Harding calls for a further reduction of appropriations of $126,000,000 for 1925. In conference with departmental heads he pointed out that this will tax the best efforts of the supervisors of the departments. The president stresses this need of a reduction in expenditures, not because he concludes that the cost of the upkeep of the government must steadily decrease, but because he sees that with a growing nation there must follow an increase in the cost of upkeep of a growing government. He is asking that the departments find the irreducible minimum upon which the government may constantly enlarge.

The record of economy of the Harding administration is a tribute to the president's judgment in choosing his department heads. Much of the credit for the financial stability of the government goes to the secretary of the treasury who has brought a large experience to a difficult task.

If only the next congress heeds the wishes of the administration and avoids amateur tinkering with the finances of this nation, which demand expert judgment and well-advised legislation, there is every reason to believe that the promised normalcy in government expenses will be realized.

THE LEVIATHAN'S TRIAL TRIP

THE Leviathan has left the dock with a select passenger list. Her trial trip has called forth a storm of criticism from those who epect to gain political advantage from criticizing the administration for allowing the shipping board to arrange to carry 600 representative Americans on the Leviathan's trial trip of five days' duration.

A thoughtful consideration of the matter shows that those who are critical, and have expressed their criticisms in a forceful way, are making much ado about nothing. The shipping board is doing exactly what the Cunard or White Star lines always do when they have a new boat ready for service. The management of these lines invite guests, who enjoy the trial trip arranged to perfect the organization of the ship's personnel and test the machinery of the boat. The Leviathan has a crew of nearly 1,000, and this trip will give the officers an opportunity of shaping them into an efficient organization before the "ace" of steamships starts out to sea with a full complement of passengers.

President Harding has not been moved by the criticisms that have been directed against the administration for allowing this trial trip. He had no reason to be alarmed because the trip was provided for by the democratic predecessor of Mr. Lasker who, as head of the shipping board, has carried out the plans of John Barton Payne.

The facts that such trial trips are arranged by the larger steamship lines, when they are preparing to start a new boat as a passenger carrier, would suggest that the shipping board has not done wrong. These steamship lines, if they were deliberately wasting money through such trial voyages, would soon hear from their stockholders. But they consider such trials, with invited guests aboard, necessary for the organization of the personnel, the testing of the machinery and the advertising of the boat. In doing what the shipping lines do regularly the shipping board cannot be adjudged extravagant, and the criticism will not be taken seriously by those who see that when a government goes into such undertakings it may be expected to take the practice of successful operators of such undertakings as a guide to its conduct.

OFF TO ALASKA

THE president of the United States has left Washington on a tour that will take him to one of the territories under the flag of the United States that is rich in undeveloped natural resources. This land, Alaska, is but little known and one of the advantages that will accrue from the tour will be through the information that will be broadcasted as a result of the president's visit.

No one will begrudge the president his trip into the north. He has borne burdens that would tax broad shoulders. Taking up the highest office at a time when conditions were against the party of which he is chief, conditions that made it unusually hard for the administration to keep the place in the hearts of the people which it had when an unprecedented majority placed it in power, when industrial disturbances were common, international relations unsettled, industry subnormal, and un-American doctrines preached all over the land, President Harding has through economy, cooperation with the legislative branch of the government and fairness to all parties, so far as the facts presented to him led to a fair decision, brought about a condition in the United States that reflects credit on himself and the administration and assures his return in the election of 1924.

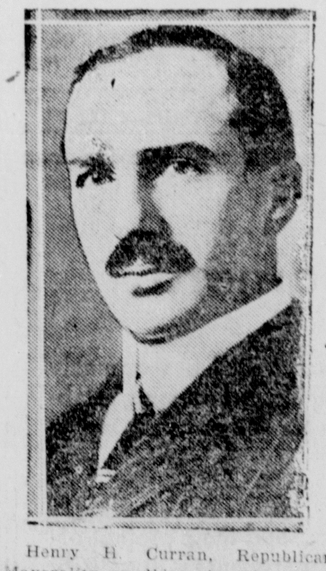

Besides affording the president an opportunity of change of scene the tour will bring him into touch with the people of the western states. In the speeches he will make he will have the opportunity of telling the people just where he stands on the issues that concern the people of this country. It is said that he will confine his talks to domestic question and, perhaps that is well, for until a country is sure of its own stability it is not qualified to be an apostle of fortitude when speaking to other peoples.

Without doubt the president's tour will lead to a greater interest in Alaska, to an increased knowledge of the resources of a country that is immensely rich, and to the development of railroads which will result in tapping the sources of raw materials to be found in quantity in that far land.

FAVORABLE rains promise improved crops and better conditions promise better prices. The farmer is a little more cheerful now.

JIMMY WILDE went down after fighting gamely. It was more like a surgical operation than a fight.

Voltaire Pleased With Puppet Show.

At all times puppet-shows have appealed strongly to the artistic and creative temperament. Over 200 years ago a small member of the French academy, Alexis Piron, wrote plays for the marionette stage, one of them being performed before the duke of Bourbon in 1726. Voltaire not only enjoyed such diversions, but on one occasion assisted in manipulating the figures.

PLAYING FAIR WITH THE IMMIGRANT

ALVIN OWSLEY, national commander of the American Legion, speaking before representatives of the American Legion of the seventh Minnesota district, said: "We are trying to right and enforce an immigration law which would protect America against those who would come to America and destroy that for which Knute Nelson lived and that for which he died."

Like many public utterances this is a statement that was not carefully calculated before it was expressed. Those who know the facts know that the late lamented Senator Knute Nelson lived to a ripe old age, that he gave himself freely for his country and that he died in fullness of years and not in any unusual sense for his country. For his country he lived and after a long life of service he died a natural death.

The other part of the statement of the national commander of the American Legion would suggest that there are many people in other parts of the earth who are awaiting the opportunity of coming to America for the deliberate purpose of overthrowing our form of government. It may be true that some communist organization is ready to send immigrants to this country to spread propaganda, but, generally, immigrants who enter America come here because they have been told stories about this country which lead them to believe that opportunity awaits them in this land dedicated to the good of its citizens.

It may be said, without fear of contradiction by the facts, that native-born Americans have made a great many communists of foreigners who have entered this land. These have been made in two ways. Coming here with high hopes of success and prosperity, they have been exploited by selfish interests directed by American-born managers, or they have been instructed by intelligent Americans who are ready to use foreigners to help them in changing our form of government.

It must not be forgotten, when an attitude is taken towards the immigrant, that the flood of immigrants came over before the World war. In the years preceding the war communism was not popular in Europe, Karl Marx was little known, and whatever socialism there was was of a mild form. Communism and Bolshevism found opportunity in the war when oppressed Russian peasants rebelled and from Russia spread to other eastern European countries. The immigrants in America became communists in America and not on foreign soil and Lenine and Trotsky went from America to organize communism in Russia.

In opposing any increase in the number of immigrants to be admitted to the United States at this time, we would not be unfair to those who wish to come. We are convinced that foreigners arriving in this country would become good Americans if they were treated according to the standard of treatment of native-born Americans. If America is unable to change the mind of a foreigner who, when admitted, harbors certain communistic views the immigrant should be returned. But it must be remembered that conditions make more disciples of communism than theorists, than even Karl Marx. The immigrant who comes to America may become an Edward Steiner, a Jacob Riis, a Knute Nelson or a Bolshevist. Of course, if they come with certain communistic ideas, there is all the more reason why they should be treated humanely here, and not as "dumb, driven cattle." Mr. Owsley must think back from the material of which Americans are made, to the conditions that make Americans in America, or Bolshevists in America.

A BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

WHEN President Harding took over the reins of office he was pledged to a program of economy. During the campaign he had stressed the necessity of bringing America back to normalcy and had affirmed that a business administration pledged to economy was needed to accomplish what he conceived to be the first task of his administration.

The Harding administration was faced by an appalling condition of things in government departments in Washington. The exigencies of wartime had led to prodigal extravagance. Money had been poured into the treasury by a people who when aroused were ready to make any sacrifice that might be called for to bring the war to a successful issue. That this money was not always spent to the best advantage has been abundantly proved. This, however, should not be too much stressed for any administration, faced with the problems of the Wilson administration, would be unable to handle affairs with the assurance that investigation would not result in the indictment of the administration for its extravagance. There were eagles that never soared, engines that never propelled planes, boats that never floated, and many other things paid for that were never delivered. Into this kind of a situation the Harding administration was plunged and it has been able to keep afloat since the plunge.

By living within its income and accumulating a surplus of $200,000,000 during the past twelve months, the government of the United States has lived up to the promise of the president. Economy has been practiced, departmental appropriations have been cut, and the departments spurred on to the task of reducing expenditures by the president have made such reductions that a balance of $200,000,000 is in the treasury. This has been accomplished despite the fact that the fiscal year which opened last July 1st started with a deficit of $823,000,000.

President Harding calls for a further reduction of appropriations of $126,000,000 for 1925. In conference with departmental heads he pointed out that this will tax the best efforts of the supervisors of the departments. The president stresses this need of a reduction in expenditures, not because he concludes that the cost of the upkeep of the government must steadily decrease, but because he sees that with a growing nation there must follow an increase in the cost of upkeep of a growing government. He is asking that the departments find the irreducible minimum upon which the government may constantly enlarge.

The record of economy of the Harding administration is a tribute to the president's judgment in choosing his department heads. Much of the credit for the financial stability of the government goes to the secretary of the treasury who has brought a large experience to a difficult task.

If only the next congress heeds the wishes of the administration and avoids amateur tinkering with the finances of this nation, which demand expert judgment and well-advised legislation, there is every reason to believe that the promised normalcy in government expenses will be realized.

THE LEVIATHAN'S TRIAL TRIP

THE Leviathan has left the dock with a select passenger list. Her trial trip has called forth a storm of criticism from those who epect to gain political advantage from criticizing the administration for allowing the shipping board to arrange to carry 600 representative Americans on the Leviathan's trial trip of five days' duration.

A thoughtful consideration of the matter shows that those who are critical, and have expressed their criticisms in a forceful way, are making much ado about nothing. The shipping board is doing exactly what the Cunard or White Star lines always do when they have a new boat ready for service. The management of these lines invite guests, who enjoy the trial trip arranged to perfect the organization of the ship's personnel and test the machinery of the boat. The Leviathan has a crew of nearly 1,000, and this trip will give the officers an opportunity of shaping them into an efficient organization before the "ace" of steamships starts out to sea with a full complement of passengers.

President Harding has not been moved by the criticisms that have been directed against the administration for allowing this trial trip. He had no reason to be alarmed because the trip was provided for by the democratic predecessor of Mr. Lasker who, as head of the shipping board, has carried out the plans of John Barton Payne.

The facts that such trial trips are arranged by the larger steamship lines, when they are preparing to start a new boat as a passenger carrier, would suggest that the shipping board has not done wrong. These steamship lines, if they were deliberately wasting money through such trial voyages, would soon hear from their stockholders. But they consider such trials, with invited guests aboard, necessary for the organization of the personnel, the testing of the machinery and the advertising of the boat. In doing what the shipping lines do regularly the shipping board cannot be adjudged extravagant, and the criticism will not be taken seriously by those who see that when a government goes into such undertakings it may be expected to take the practice of successful operators of such undertakings as a guide to its conduct.

OFF TO ALASKA

THE president of the United States has left Washington on a tour that will take him to one of the territories under the flag of the United States that is rich in undeveloped natural resources. This land, Alaska, is but little known and one of the advantages that will accrue from the tour will be through the information that will be broadcasted as a result of the president's visit.

No one will begrudge the president his trip into the north. He has borne burdens that would tax broad shoulders. Taking up the highest office at a time when conditions were against the party of which he is chief, conditions that made it unusually hard for the administration to keep the place in the hearts of the people which it had when an unprecedented majority placed it in power, when industrial disturbances were common, international relations unsettled, industry subnormal, and un-American doctrines preached all over the land, President Harding has through economy, cooperation with the legislative branch of the government and fairness to all parties, so far as the facts presented to him led to a fair decision, brought about a condition in the United States that reflects credit on himself and the administration and assures his return in the election of 1924.

Besides affording the president an opportunity of change of scene the tour will bring him into touch with the people of the western states. In the speeches he will make he will have the opportunity of telling the people just where he stands on the issues that concern the people of this country. It is said that he will confine his talks to domestic question and, perhaps that is well, for until a country is sure of its own stability it is not qualified to be an apostle of fortitude when speaking to other peoples.

Without doubt the president's tour will lead to a greater interest in Alaska, to an increased knowledge of the resources of a country that is immensely rich, and to the development of railroads which will result in tapping the sources of raw materials to be found in quantity in that far land.

SENSE OF HUMOR A VALUABLE ONE

(By United Press)

St. Paul, June 22—A sense of humor is a life-saving asset in extremely hot weather, Frank H. Davis, vicepresident of the Equitable Life Insurance Society of America, told salesmen gathered here. The ability of the American people to joke about the weather is a Godsend, he said. The thermometer registered 90 as he spoke.

DETROIT HAS BAD SIEGE OF HEAT

Detroit, Mich., June 22—One man was killed by lightning, one succumbed to heat prostration, and seven other victims of heat prostration were reported within the last 24 hours here. Although a rain fell late yesterday, the temperature was on the up-grade this morning, with 82 recorded at 8 a. m.

KANSAS CITY IS SWELTERING

MYSTERY SURROUNDS BURNING VESSEL

(By United Press)

New London, Conn., June 22.—Mystery surrounding the sighting of a burning vessel for a few moments and later a tangled mass of wreckage in the sound was solved today when its occupants explained their rescue.

W. R. Wickham, of Mantauck, and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Cowles, of Hartford, Conn., were in the Cowles yacht, Tawni, off the mouth of the Connecticut river when the boat caught fire. They escaped in a tender and were taken aboard by a passing yacht. The yacht Tawni, valued at $25,000, was totally destroyed. The accident was reported to New London by members of another yacht party which saw the Tawni afire and went to the rescue, but found no trace of her.

Her occupants reported that they were picked up from the wreckage by a high speed boat.

PULLMAN SURTAX HEARING LAUNCHED

Chicago, June 22—The Pullman surcharge in 1922 on all railroads was $32,891,000, Charles M. Burt of the Grand Trunk railroad, and chairman of a committee of traffic men, testified at the interstate commerce commission hearing on a petition that the surcharge be discontinued.

The petition was presented by the United Commercial Travelers association.

Mr. Burt testified that between 1912 and 1922 Pullman traffic increased 88.5 per cent, while coach traffic increased 2.4 per cent. He said Pullman cars rarely were loaded to capacity, and that the average number of passengers carried in a Pullman is 27, as compared with 69 in a day coach.

FIRST DRIVER FINED FOR GLARING LIGHTS

Minneapolis, June 22—When the first motorist to be brought into court on a charge of violating the glaring headlight law faced Judge F. E. Reed today he was given a fine of $20, with an alternative of 20 days in jail. He was C. S. Gilbert of 2726 Grand avenue. The light on Gilbert's car was in flagrant violation of the law, police testified. Nearly 600 motorists have been warned in the police campaign against bright headlights which blind pedestrians and other motorists but Mr. Gilbert was the first man to be brought into court.

A Real Achievement in Dollar-for-dollar Value

The thousands of Studebaker Light-Sixes in daily use are the best possible assurance of what may be expected next year—or several years hence—of the Light-Six you buy today.

For after all, the best way to judge a new motor car is by what it has done—how it has stood up in service—the satisfaction it has delivered.

We sincerely believe that the Light-Six Touring Car, with its improved all-steel body, is the sturdiest, handsomest, most comfortable, most dependable and economical low-priced car built.

The machining of all surfaces of the crankshaft and connecting rods, to which is largely due its practical absence of vibration, is a practice used by Studebaker exclusively on cars at this price and is found only on a few other cars whose selling prices are from three to ten times as high as the Light-Six.

The one-piece, rain-proof windshield with parking lights set in the base, is a joy to the driver—nothing to mar his view of the road ahead. Deep, fat cushions are upholstered in genuine leather. Curtains, bound on three sides by steel rods, open with the doors and provide closed car coziness in bad weather.

The most seasoned driver will find a new thrill in the smooth, quiet, steady performance of the Light-Six—and in its ease of handling, and in the way it performs in high gear at low speeds—eliminating constant gear shifting.

The name Studebaker has stood for high grade transportation, quality, value and integrity for 71 years.

SQUIRE EDGEGATE — Notification, Perspiration, Taxation and Expiration—Yes, All of This Happened! BY LOUIS RICHARD

SENSE OF HUMOR A VALUABLE ONE

(By United Press)

St. Paul, June 22—A sense of humor is a life-saving asset in extremely hot weather, Frank H. Davis, vicepresident of the Equitable Life Insurance Society of America, told salesmen gathered here. The ability of the American people to joke about the weather is a Godsend, he said. The thermometer registered 90 as he spoke.

SUPERIOR CLAIMS TO BE COOL AS CUCUMBER

Superior, Wis., June 22—While the rest of the country sweltered, Superior and other Lake Superior ports are "cool as a cucumber."

A northeast wind bringing clouds off the lake brought a drop in temperature of about 40 degrees since yesterday.

Today it was 55 here at noon, while 500 miles away temperatures up around 90 were reported.

IT MAKES YOU HOT TO READ IT

Suffering caused by the terrific heat waves bathing the east and middle west this week was ameliorated as far as the Atlantic states by cooling breezes early today. Temperatures dropped from yesterday's heights.

In the northwest as far south as Kansas City and as far north as Lake Superior there had been little dimunition of the severe heat.

NO CESSATION OF THE HEAT WAVE

Washington, June 22—No further material relief from the heat today and tomorrow was promised by the weather bureau in its official forecast today.

NEW YORKERS ENJOY A LIGHT BREEZE

New York, June 22—Considerable relief from the terrific heat wave lying over the east was experienced by New Yorkers today. The temperature at 8 a. m. was 75, with a semblance of a breeze. This was 10 degrees cooler than at the same time Thursday.

Six more deaths were caused here by the heat yesterday, with numerous prostrations. Two person died from heat prostrations in Brooklyn early today.

EAST WIND BREAKS BOSTON TORRID ZONE

Boston, June 22—An east wind, New England's good Samaritan of the elements, today broke the heat wave which caused 11 deaths and many prostrations in the last few days.

DETROIT HAS BAD SIEGE OF HEAT

Detroit, Mich., June 22—One man was killed by lightning, one succumbed to heat prostration, and seven other victims of heat prostration were reported within the last 24 hours here. Although a rain fell late yesterday, the temperature was on the up-grade this morning, with 82 recorded at 8 a. m.

KANSAS CITY IS SWELTERING

Kansas City, Mo., June 22—Sweltering under continued high temperatures today on the occasion of President Harding's visit, precautions were taken to rush heat victims to hospitals, as huge crowds gathered to witness the presidential parade through the city.

Record high temperatures have been prevalent this week, with no relief reported by the weather bureau.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS BURNING VESSEL

(By United Press)

New London, Conn., June 22.—Mystery surrounding the sighting of a burning vessel for a few moments and later a tangled mass of wreckage in the sound was solved today when its occupants explained their rescue.

W. R. Wickham, of Mantauck, and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Cowles, of Hartford, Conn., were in the Cowles yacht, Tawni, off the mouth of the Connecticut river when the boat caught fire. They escaped in a tender and were taken aboard by a passing yacht. The yacht Tawni, valued at $25,000, was totally destroyed. The accident was reported to New London by members of another yacht party which saw the Tawni afire and went to the rescue, but found no trace of her.

Her occupants reported that they were picked up from the wreckage by a high speed boat.

PULLMAN SURTAX HEARING LAUNCHED

Chicago, June 22—The Pullman surcharge in 1922 on all railroads was $32,891,000, Charles M. Burt of the Grand Trunk railroad, and chairman of a committee of traffic men, testified at the interstate commedce commission hearing on a petition that the surcharge be discontinued.

The petition was presented by the United Commercial Travelers association.

Mr. Burt testified that between 1912 and 1922 Pullman traffic increased 88.5 per cent, while coach traffic increased 2.4 per cent. He said Pullman cars rarely were loaded to capacity, and that the average number of passengers carried in a Pullman is 27, as compared with 69 in a day coach.

FIRST DRIVER FINED FOR GLARING LIGHTS

Minneapolis, June 22—When the first motorist to be brought into court on a charge of violating the glaring headlight law faced Judge F. E. Reed today he was given a fine of $20, with an alternative of 20 days in jail. He was C. S. Gilbert of 2726 Grand avenue. The light on Gilbert's car was in flagrant violation of the law, police testified. Nearly 600 motorists have been warned in the police campaign against bright headlights which blind pedestrians and other motorists but Mr. Gilbert was the first man to be brought into court.

THE STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX TOURING CAR

A Real Achievement in Dollar-for-dollar Value

The thousands of Studebaker Light-Sixes in daily use are the best possible assurance of what may be expected next year—or several years hence—of the Light-Six you buy today.

For after all, the best way to judge a new motor car is by what it has done—how it has stood up in service—the satisfaction it has delivered.

We sincerely believe that the Light-Six Touring Car, with its improved all-steel body, is the sturdiest, handsomest, most comfortable, most dependable and economical low-priced car built.

The machining of all surfaces of the crankshaft and connecting rods, to which is largely due its practical absence of vibration, is a practice used by Studebaker exclusively on cars at this price and is found only on a few other cars whose selling prices are from three to ten times as high as the Light-Six.

The one-piece, rain-proof windshield with parking lights set in the base, is a joy to the driver—nothing to mar his view of the road ahead. Deep, fat cushions are upholstered in genuine leather. Curtains, bound on three sides by steel rods, open with the doors and provide closed car coziness in bad weather.

The most seasoned driver will find a new thrill in the smooth, quiet, steady performance of the Light-Six—and in its ease of handling, and in the way it performs in high gear at low speeds—eliminating constant gear shifting.

The name Studebaker has stood for high grade transportation, quality, value and integrity for 71 years.

The Two Children

By MYRA CURTIS LANE

(© by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE little heir of the millionaire Ward family lay screened in on the cot in the hospital ward. There was no private room available, and he had been rushed there to undergo the sudden operation for appendicitis.

He had not rallied, and now lay with his childish face drawn and gray and contracted. Around the cot were gathered the mother and the father, the doctor and the nurse.

On the next cot, also screened in, lay the little heir of the Hodges family. Hodges was a bricklayer. He stood beside the bed, looking down at his only child. Beside him his wife kneeled in prayer. There was no nurse or doctor. They would come presently; just now they were with the Ward child.

"If only he could have been taken to a private room," Mrs. Ward was thinking.

"There's no more to be done now, Mrs. Ward," said the doctor. "We must hope for the best. If he rallies it will be later this evening."

The father went away. Even a millionaire is tied to his work. Hodges, too, left his son's bedside. The two men went out together. Neither spoke to the other; each was absorbed in thoughts of his own.

But Mrs. Ward, rising, encountered Mrs. Hodges in the ward. She looked at her resentfully. She had seen her shabby clothes before the screen was drawn, and the rough man who stood beside her. She could not bear to think of her son dying in a public ward.

The afternoon wore away. Sometimes the doctor appeared beside one bed, sometimes beside the other. At times a sob sounded from the bed on which the Hodges child was lying. Ward was back, Hodges was back. They moved uneasily to and fro. Everyone in the ward was waiting for the issue of the Ward heir's struggle with death.

Mrs. Hodges was praying at her child's bedside. Mrs. Ward was not praying. Her religion was only formal, and she was too honest to call now for that help which she had derided in time of well-being. Nevertheless she was sending out heartfelt wishes for her child's recovery; she was putting forth a will power that, if will can work miracles, ought to be efficacious.

She fancied she heard some one say that the child in the next bed was better, and a spasm of fierce anger shook her. Why should the one be taken and the other left? The rich child taken? God, it should not be!

"The crisis will soon be here," said the doctor. The nurse raised the white arm and injected a few drops of serum. Mrs. Ward bent over her son in an agony of apprehension. Her husband stood, white-faced, beside the bed.

And gradually, with infinite slowness, a faint color began to come back into the Ward child's face. The hurried, shallow breathing deepened. The lids fluttered open, the eyes saw.

"Mummy!"

"Darling!" Mrs. Ward kneeled and clasped the little hands tightly. The nurse looked in and glided off in search of the doctor. He came, placed his stethoscope to the chest, held the wrist in his hand and felt the pulse.

"He'll pull through, Mrs. Ward," he announced.

The mother broke down in frenzied sobs of joy. Ward's face was convulsed. "God bless you, doctor," he said.

"Yes, it was touch and go," the doctor answered, "but he's turned the corner now. There won't be any further danger, unless complications result."

"We'd better go home, Mary," said Ward to his wife. "They've promised to telephone us if we're needed." He drew his wife's arm through his.

Mrs. Ward stooped over the bed and kissed the little boy. "Mummy will be back soon," she said. "You must try to sleep now."

She halted outside the screen, while her husband engaged the nurse in colloquy. She had forgotten about the bricklayer's son until Mrs. Hodges glided forward.

"I am so glad to hear the good news about your boy," she said. "It must have been a dreadful strain on you."

Mrs. Ward clasped her hand impulsively. "Thank you so much," she said. "And you—your boy. I hope he's doing all right?"

The other turned her face away, left her. The tears were streaming down her cheeks, and she could not bring herself to speak.

"Souls For Sale" Shows Life Behind the Scenes

Rupert Hughes' new photoplay, "Souls for Sale," which he picturized from his own novel of movie life in Hollywood for Goldwyn is the "Show Shop" of filmdom. What James Forbes' play did for the stage, Mr. Hughes' "Souls for Sale" does for motion pictures. This film has been booked for the New Park and will be shown on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Hughes is responsible for the statement that most of incidents which he pictures in his novel and in the screen version of it are taken from happenings which he has seen at the studio and on location.

"A lot of the incidents in this picture really have happened either to my company or that of other directors," says Mr. Hughes. "For instance, take the accident with the wind-propeller which happens in this story: That really happened to Patsy Ruth Miller in 'Remembrance,' when night scenes were being taken at 4:30 in the morning, when everybody was dead tired and shivering with cold, and somebody had moved the wind machine slightly, so that Miss Miller was within two feet of being struck by the thing which would inevitably have killed her had she taken two steps more in the dark.

Holt Scoring Again

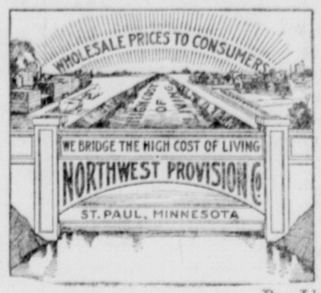

For the second time within a short period, Jack Holt, Paramount star, appears in an adaptation of a popular Peter B. Kyne story—"Making a Man," which will be on view at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Saturday. Recently he was the star of "While Satan Sleeps," in which he scored a knockout success.

"Making a Man" is the story of a wealthy young snob, a tyrant among his employes and neighbors alike, who puts one straw too many on the camel's back, so to speak. His life threatened, he escapes to New York.

AMUSEMENTS

Screen Stars in "Monte Cristo"

Some of the screen luminaries in the William Fox production, "Monte Cristo," which will be shown here at the Lyceum theatre Sunday are: John Gilbert, William Mong, Estelle Taylor, Renee Adoree, Spottiswoode Aitkin, Robert McKim, Harry Lonsdale, Albert Prisco, Gaston Glass, Maud George and others. The production was directed by the well-known director, Emmett J. Flynn.

"Souls For Sale" Shows Life Behind the Scenes

Rupert Hughes' new photoplay, "Souls for Sale," which he picturized from his own novel of movie life in Hollywood for Goldwyn is the "Show Shop" of filmdom. What James Forbes' play did for the stage, Mr. Hughes' "Souls for Sale" does for motion pictures. This film has been booked for the New Park and will be shown on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Hughes is responsible for the statement that most of incidents which he pictures in his novel and in the screen version of it are taken from happenings which he has seen at the studio and on location.

"A lot of the incidents in this picture really have happened either to my company or that of other directors," says Mr. Hugnes. "For instance, take the accident with the wind-propeller which happens in this story: That really happened to Patsy Ruth Miller in 'Remembrance,' when night scenes were being taken at 4:30 in the morning, when everybody was dead tired and shivering with cold, and somebody had moved the wind machine slightly, so that Miss Miller was within two feet of being struck by the thing which would inevitably have killed her had she taken two steps more in the dark.

Holt Scoring Again

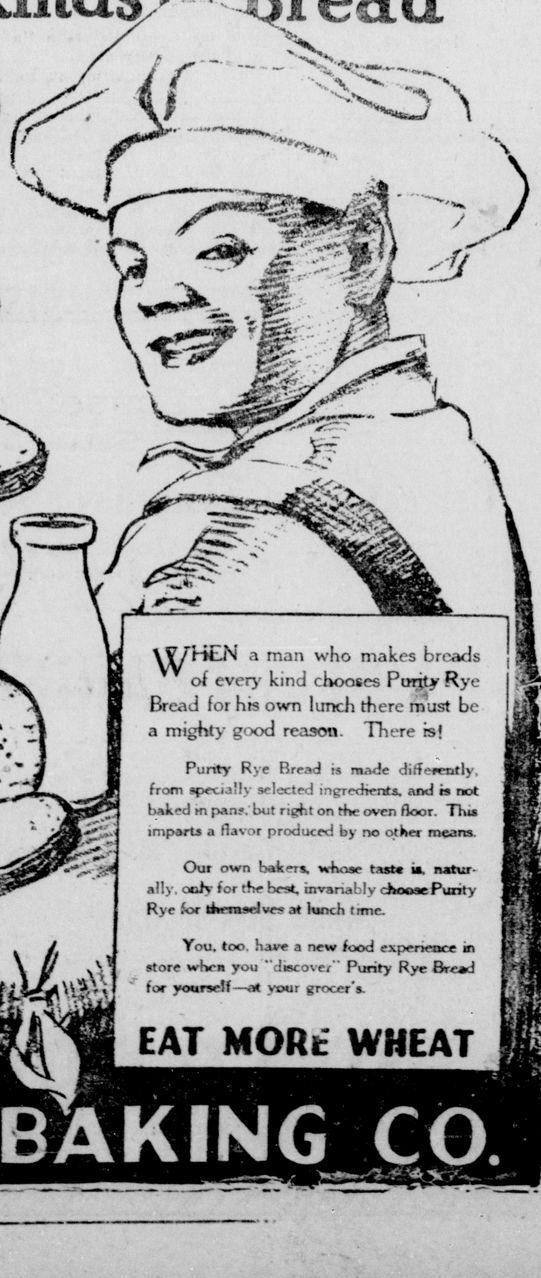

For the second time within a short period, Jack Holt, Paramount star, appears in an adaptation of a popular Peter B. Kyne story—"Making a Man," which will be on view at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Saturday. Recently he was the star of "While Satan Sleeps," in which he scored a knockout success.

"Making a Man" is the story of a wealthy young snob, a tyrant among his employes and neighbors alike, who puts one straw too many on the camel's back, so to speak. His life threatened, he escapes to New York.

Purity

RYE BREAD

WHEN a man who makes breads of every kind chooses Purity Rye Bread for his own lunch there must be a mighty good reason. There is!

Purity Rye Bread is made differently, from specially selected ingredients, and is not baked in pans, but right on the oven floor. This imparts a flavor produced by no other means.

Our own bakers, whose taste is, naturally, only for the best, invariably choose Purity Rye for themselves at lunch time.

You, too, have a new food experience in store when you "discover" Purity Rye Bread for yourself—at your grocer's.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Two Cars in Collision at Intersection of Laurel and South 4th Streets

An automobile accident at 8:30 Friday morning put one car in the garage for repairs and slightly injured two of the occupants, when a seven passenger Willys-Knight touring car owned by A. M. Opsahl and Harry Belmuth's Ford collided at the intersection of Laurel and South Fourth streets near the Stadlbauer garage.

Mr. Belmuth was bound for Gull lake, and had with him Bert Finn and William Lee. His car, a Ford roadster, was equipped with a small truck body in which one of the men was riding.

Mr. Opsahl, with his wife and son, were just driving in from Gull lake where they have a summer cottage. His car was pulling a trailer. He turned off from Laurel street, intending to drive up Fourth to his home, but collided with the Belmuth Ford at the intersection.

The windshield was broken, fenders and running board bent, a dent put in the body, and the running gear twisted on the Ford. Finn and Lee were bruised, one on the knee, the other a small cut over the eye. The Opsahl car was only slightly damaged, and suffered a punctured tire.

Pride Goeth Before a Fall.

A young society matron was taking her baby for an airing in its buggy. She was fairly strutting down the boulevard, so great was her pride in this first born. Two little girls, playing on the apartment steps, smiled at her as she passed. One of them turned to the other and said, "Now, that's what I'm going to be when I grow up. I'm going to be a maid, so I can take people's babies out for an airing."—Kansas City Star.

Miss Ruth Mitchell of St. Cloud Invites 6th District Women League of Voters

ALL DAY PICNIC JUNE 26TH

Four Automobiles Will Carry Brainerd Delegation to the Outing

Miss Ruth Mitchell of St. Cloud has invited the women of the Sixth District, League of Women Voters, to hold an all-day picnic at her grandmother's tea garden on Tuesday, June 26th.

Coffee and ice cream will be served at the garden to suppliment basket lunches, or lunch may be ordered at the garden, and the basket lunch reserved for the evening meal, on the way home.

Hon. Mabeth Paige will tell something of her experiences at the recent meeting of the International Suffrage Alliance, at Rome, Italy.

There will be a speaker on the World Court, and reports on the progress of the world court petition will be called for from every town in the district.

Four automobile loads are planning to make the trip from Brainerd. More will be welcome. Cars are requested to start in time to be at the garden by twelve o'clock, noon.

Pictures and Appetites.

Christiania, Norway, has a restaurant where the "feast of reason and flow of soul" is nightly associated with crowded tables. A Norwegian painter of repute was engaged to decorate the walls of the dining saloon. When he had completed the work, he could not obtain payment, and took the proprietor to court.

The owner declared the pictures were inartistic and drove customers away. He wanted the artist to pay for erasing the paintings, and also to pay for another to decorate the walls in a more attractive manner. Several critics bore testimony to the excellence of the work. While the court is considering the question, the restaurant is crowded nightly with guests more critical of its pictures than of its viands.

Drawing a Fine Line.

Many Indianapolis needy people go to a certain charity worker for advice as well as for aid. The other day a colored woman came with a lacerated face. She told her story in plain language. Her husband had beat her whenever he wanted exercise. She wanted the charity woman to tell her how to cure him of the "fault."

The charity worker looked at her a few minutes. Then she said: "A man who beats a woman needs pretty severe treatment. Have you a rolling pin?"

For a minute the colored woman stared at her. Then she caught at what the other woman was suggesting. "No, I ain't got no rollin' pin," she returned, "but, lady, I has got a razor."—Indianapolis News.

IN GRANDMA'S TEA GARDEN

Miss Ruth Mitchell of St. Cloud Invites 6th District Women League of Voters

ALL DAY PICNIC JUNE 26TH

Four Automobiles Will Carry Brainerd Delegation to the Outing

Miss Ruth Mitchell of St. Cloud has invited the women of the Sixth District, League of Women Voters, to hold an all-day picnic at her grandmother's tea garden on Tuesday, June 26th.

Coffee and ice cream will be served at the garden to suppliment basket lunches, or lunch may be ordered at the garden, and the basket lunch reserved for the evening meal, on the way home.

Hon. Mabeth Paige will tell something of her experiences at the recent meeting of the International Suffrage Alliance, at Rome, Italy.

There will be a speaker on the World Court, and reports on the progress of the world court petition will be called for from every town in the district.

Four automobile loads are planning to make the trip from Brainerd. More will be welcome. Cars are requested to start in time to be at the garden by twelve o'clock, noon.

Pictures and Appetites.

Christiania, Norway, has a restaurant where the "feast of reason and flow of soul" is nightly associated with crowded tables. A Norwegian painter of repute was engaged to decorate the walls of the dining saloon. When he had completed the work, he could not obtain payment, and took the proprietor to court.

The owner declared the pictures were inartistic and drove customers away. He wanted the artist to pay for erasing the paintings, and also to pay for another to decorate the walls in a more attractive manner. Several critics bore testimony to the excellence of the work. While the court is considering the question, the restaurant is crowded nightly with guests more critical of its pictures than of its viands.

Drawing a Fine Line.

Many Indianapolis needy people go to a certain charity worker for advice as well as for aid. The other day a colored woman came with a lacerated face. She told her story in plain language. Her husband had beat her whenever he wanted exercise. She wanted the charity woman to tell her how to cure him of the "fault."

The charity worker looked at her a few minutes. Then she said: "A man who beats a woman needs pretty severe treatment. Have you a rolling pin?"

For a minute the colored woman stared at her. Then she caught at what the other woman was suggesting. "No, I ain't got no rollin' pin," she returned, "but, lady, I has got a razor."—Indianapolis News.

YALE AND HARVARD RENEW WATER FIGHT

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Sports Editor

New York, June 22.—Yale and Harvard renew their age-old eight-oar shell duel on the Thames, at New London, Connecticut, this afternoon, with the honors in favor of Yale.

Since the race first was inaugurated in 1885 the Blues from New Haven have won a far larger number of the annual two-mile contests in their private feud. Harvard won but once since 1918, and that in 1920.

The crews have been training for more than a month. Harvard at Red Top, down the river, and Yale at Gales Ferry.

An extraordinary amount of interest has been stirred up between the colleges over the Freshmen race this year because of the apparent evenness of the crws. Yale authorities had threatened to cancel the match because of the outburst of Freshmen in a celebration two weeks ago.

A small number of select athletes will be taken to Paris next summer for the Olympic games. At Antwerp in 1920 the American delegation was unusually large and, officials say, this experiment proved conclusively that numbers have nothing to do with points.

The expense involved in carting a big team across the ocean is tremendous and it is extremely hard to manage a big organization. As no evident advantage is to be gained by a large representation the new decision has been made in the name of economy.

Outside of the shorter runs it is likely that only three or four entrants for each event will be taken along.

Tryouts for the team probably will be held at Franklin Field, Philadelphia. There is sure to be a wild scramble for positions and it is not impossible that a few records will be broken in the melee.

YALE WON THE FRESHMAN RACE

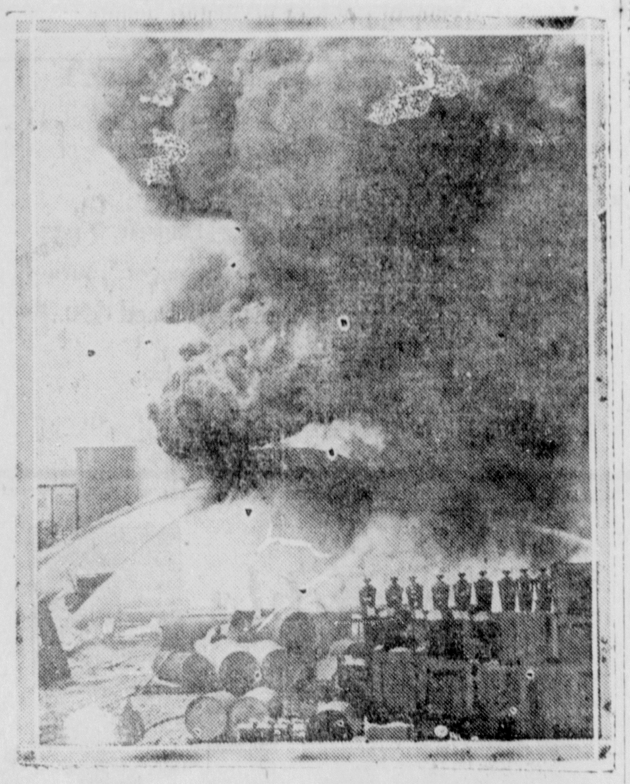

(By United Press)

New London, Conn., June 22.—Yale won the Freshman race, the first event of the annual Harvard-Yale regatta on the Thames here today. The Freshmen eights got away at 11:05 a. m., the Yale youngsters pulling into the lead, and at the turn three-fourths of a mile from the start the Blue was three lengths ahead. Entering the second mile, Yale increased her lead to four lengths. Harvard started a spurt and cut down the margin to three lengths, but that effort finished the Crimson. They began splashing. Yale pulled with a swift, steady stroke that carried them over the line 20 seconds ahead according to the unofficial time. Yale rowed the two miles in perfect form.

The Concentrated Angler.

A gentleman hesitates to bother anybody whose mind is concentrated on his fishing. The expert knows by experience one question leads to another, then on to begging, borrowing or buying. The expert knows that tyros are never provided with tackle, bait, or reasonable consideration for others. They expect the whole boatload of anglers to wait on them because they catch no fish.—Louis Rhead.

Million Dollar Oil Fire in Pittsburgh

Above is shown the fire raging in a 30,000 barrel oil tank of the Atlantic Refining company in this city. The tank was struck by lightning and soon was a roaring furnace. Fourteen firemen were injured in battling the blaze which raged furiously for more than 24 hours. The damage is believed to total more than a million dollars.

NO GLASS IN THE CHIN OF GIBBONS

Shelby, Mont., June 22—Tom Gibbons figures knockout punches like pulling plugs out of a switchboard.

"A knockout punch to the point of the chin dislocates the jaw temporarily," says Gibbons.

"Blood circulation to the brain stops and the brain sleeps.

"There is such a thing as blocking your own knockout blow—that is, keeping it from taking effect.

"I have seen it work out in my battles.

"One time I had a fellow started for the floor. But I spoiled it.

"I hit him with a right to the chin. His left jaw was sprung slightly out. He was hesitating on his legs.

"Instead of hitting him with another right to the same spot I crossed with my left. That drove his jaw back to its normal position and he came back to his senses.

"A knockout is like pulling plugs out of a switchboard. Restoring them from the knockout is like putting the plug back in the switchboard socket.

"That is what happened in the above case.

"Even when you sleep they say the jaw slightly drops out of place, separating the flow of consciousness from the brain.

"I never was on the brink of a knockout that I can remember but once.

"That was a long time ago in 1914. It was the second year I had been fighting.

"My brother Mike was in my corner. I was biffing with Buck Crouse at Hudson, Wisconsin.

"Buck hit me right on the whiskers in the second round. I was hurt.

"When I went back to my corner I told Mike that I would have to go out the next round and sock that baby out or he was going to nail me.

"I went out in the third set to knock over a barn.

"My original plans had been to give Crouse a boxing lesson.

"When I changed my style to slugging it got the results.

"Before the end of that third Crouse was on the floor.

"That fight came the nearest to being curtains for me that I have ever had.

"Why can't they knock me out? I don't know but I guess I have one of those tough chins. My jaw bones don't disconnect easily.

"I knew fighters that the least little tap on the chin puts their jaw out. They call such fighters glass-chin fellows.

'So far there has been no china in mine."

Outside of the shorter runs it is likely that only three or four entrants for each event will be taken along.

Tryouts for the team probably will be held at Franklin Field, Philadelphia. There is sure to be a wild scramble for positions and it is not impossible that a few records will be broken in the melee.

YALE WON THE FRESHMAN RACE

(By United Press)

New London, Conn., June 22.—Yale won the Freshman race, the first event of the annual Harvard-Yale regatta on the Thames here today. The Freshmen eights got away at 11:05 a. m., the Yale youngsters pulling into the lead, and at the turn three-fourths of a mile from the start the Blue was three lengths ahead. Entering the second mile, Yale increased her lead to four lengths. Harvard started a spurt and cut down the margin to three lengths, but that effort finished the Crimson. They began splashing. Yale pulled with a swift, steady stroke that carried them over the line 20 seconds ahead according to the unofficial time. Yale rowed the two miles in perfect form.

The Concentrated Angler.

A gentleman hesitates to bother anybody whose mind is concentrated on his fishing. The expert knows by experience one question leads to another, then on to begging, borrowing or buying. The expert knows that tyros are never provided with tackle, bait, or reasonable consideration for others. They expect the whole boatload of anglers to wait on them because they catch no fish.—Louis Rhead.

Million Dollar Oil Fire in Pittsburgh

Above is shown the fire raging in a 30,000 barrel oil tank of the Atlantic Refining company in this city. The tank was struck by lightning and soon was a roaring furnace. Fourteen firemen were injured in battling the blaze which raged furiously for more than 24 hours. The damage is believed to total more than a million dollars.

NO GLASS IN THE CHIN OF GIBBONS

Shelby, Mont., June 22—Tom Gibbons figures knockout punches like pulling plugs out of a switchboard.

"A knockout punch to the point of the chin dislocates the jaw temporarily," says Gibbons.

"Blood circulation to the brain stops and the brain sleeps.

"There is such a thing as blocking your own knockout blow—that is, keeping it from taking effect.

"I have seen it work out in my battles.

"One time I had a fellow started for the floor. But I spoiled it.

"I hit him with a right to the chin. His left jaw was sprung slightly out. He was hesitating on his legs.

"Instead of hitting him with another right to the same spot I crossed with my left. That drove his jaw back to its normal position and he came back to his senses.

"A knockout is like pulling plugs out of a switchboard. Restoring them from the knockout is like putting the plug back in the switchboard socket.

"That is what happened in the above case.

"Even when you sleep they say the jaw slightly drops out of place, separating the flow of consciousness from the brain.

"I never was on the brink of a knockout that I can remember but once.

"That was a long time ago in 1914. It was the second year I had been fighting.

"My brother Mike was in my corner. I was biffing with Buck Crouse at Hudson, Wisconsin.

"Buck hit me right on the whiskers in the second round. I was hurt.

"When I went back to my corner I told Mike that I would have to go out the next round and sock that baby out or he was going to nail me.

"I went out in the third set to knock over a barn.

"My original plans had been to give Crouse a boxing lesson.

"When I changed my style to slugging it got the results.

"Before the end of that third Crouse was on the floor.

"That fight came the nearest to being curtains for me that I have ever had.

"Why can't they knock me out? I don't know but I guess I have one of those tough chins. My jaw bones don't disconnect easily.

"I know fighters that the least little tap on the chin puts their jaw out. They call such fighters glass-chin fellows.

'So far there has been no china in mine."

Gibbons' Stock Rises For Dempsey Bout

The experts are picking Jack Dempsey to win the July 4th, battle. But give Gibbons the benefit of conjecture and figure him to make a good showing. Gibbons, pictured above, has pitched his camp right in Shelby and is getting acclimated to the environment and atmosphere.
